More than 1,300 companies from 32 countries showcased their specialty food and beverage products at the for-trade-only 35th Winter Fancy Food Show in San Francisco last week.

Past years' emphasis on bottled waters, salts and chocolates has given way to foods claiming enhanced nutritional value and those incorporating honey, flowers, spices and exotic flavors.

During the three-day event, nearly 17,000 attendees sampled their way through 80,000 products. The Chronicle Food & Wine staff attempted to do likewise.

Here are some highlights:

B.R. Cohn's California Unfiltered Golden Balsamic Vinegar made with California grapes and aged at least two years balances acidity with a slight honey-like sweetness
